

HISTORY OF THE ANAHEIM FAMILY YMCA

In 1911, at just 13 years old, Charles Pearson rode his bicycle up and down Center Street, collecting a dollar from each business to establish the town's first YMCA. With the support from the community, the YMCA began offering its first programs for youth, including the new Hi-Y clubs in local schools. In 1947, more than three decades after founding the Anaheim YMCA, Charles Pearson went on to become the city's mayor.
